

Rutgers Remedies

RUTGERS SASHP NEWSLETTER

Wednesday, February 2, 2022

Dear SAS Honors Program Students,

As I write this from the Rutgers Makerspace, I am reminded of some of the great things that the university offers as a remedy for boredom. As one of the largest universities in the country, Rutgers has a whole host of really interesting facilities and spots to pick up a new skill, practice some skills you already have, or surround yourself with something totally different from your norm. A few off the top of my head are the Makerspace on Livi, the Eco Preserve on Livi, the Rock Wall on College Ave, Rutgers Gardens off of Cook/Doug (which requires a car), and the eSports Center on Busch. While these are all great, there are dozens that even I don't know of, so do your own research and find something that suits you.

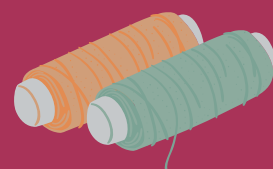

Speaking of research, check out some of the upcoming events/announcements. Tour one of the university's best remedies for boredom with an upcoming Zimmerli Art Museum Tour. Join the sociology department for their first colloquium of the semester: Refusing Death: Asian and Latina Immigrant Women Activists on Race, Class, and Morality. Take over the SASHP Instagram for a week by applying to be an SASHP HIPster.

Warm Regards,
Justin Confalone
Your newsletter editor

In this Newsletter:

- *Zimmerli Art Museum Guided Tour(s)
- *Refusing Death: Asian and Latina Immigrant Women Activists on Race, Class, and Morality
- *SASHP HIPster App

Honors Housing signup is going on now through February 8! Sign up here!

SASHP Newsletter

Events/Announcements

Zimmerli Art Museum Guided Tour(s)

Come and visit the Zimmerli Museum for a guided tour of the Angela Davis - Seize the Time exhibition. This exhibition focuses on Angela Davis and her image, providing a compelling and layered narrative of Davis's journey through the junctures of race, gender, and economic and political policy. Tours are available on Feb 17 at 6 pm EST, Feb 18 at 11 am EST, Feb 23 at 2 pm EST, Mar 4 at 11 am and this event satisfies colloquium requirements. Register in advance here.

Refusing Death: Asian and Latina Immigrant Women Activists on Race, Class, and Morality

Join Loyola Marymount University's Nadia Kim as she presents the first Rutgers Sociology Department Colloquium of the semester: Refusing Death: Asian and Latina Immigrant Women Activists on Race, Class, and Morality. Nadia Kim is a professor of sociology whose research focuses on US race and citizenship inequalities regarding Korean/Asian Americans and South Koreans. This event takes place next Wed, Feb 9 at 11:30 am EST. More info can be found here.

SASHP Hipster App

It is finally that time of year again! Show off your RU spirit by doing a total, week-long takeover of the SASHP Instagram. Poll about study habits, show off your courses, or even tell followers about your day. HIPsters have full access to the IG page for a week and must apply by Feb 15. The application can be found here. Check out some of the previous HIPsters for inspiration!

Follow Us!

@RutgersSASHP

@RUSASHP

rutgershonorsblog.
wordpress.com

SAS Honors

@RU_SASHP

SASHP NEWSLETTER • SASHP.NL@GMAIL.COM