Now that we're back in person I feel like everybody has encountered some form of group work this semester. It seems like most people have mixed feelings about working in groups and honestly I get it. Depending on your luck you may find yourself with an awesome team that gets everything done ahead of schedule or feel like you are pulling teeth every time you try to coordinate something. Something that has always worked for me in the past is giving each member one very specific part of the assignment/project, that way everybody feels accountable for their part.

Find a group that works with some of these upcoming events/announcements. Fortune favoring you lately? Stop by the upcoming RU Lucky Bingo Night and try to win some incredible prizes. Seniors looking for some advice on their capstone reports should attend the Scholarly Report Workshop. Sophomores and juniors looking to start the brainstorming process on their own capstones should stop by the upcoming Honors Capstone Q&A. Looking to go abroad in the summer/fall? The Study Abroad Deadline is fast approaching!

RU Lucky Bingo Night
Those in the Peer Mentor Program should put their fortune to the test at the upcoming Lucky Bingo Night. Bingo will be broken into three rounds: Dunkin’ Donuts gift card round, SASHP swag round, and an Amazon gift card round. This event takes place next Wed, Mar 2 at 8 pm EST in the CASC Multipurpose Room A.

Scholarly Report Workshop
I know, trust me: honors capstone is always a stressful thing to hear, but let me take just 20 seconds of your time. Seniors pursuing options C, D, E, or G of the honors capstone should stop by the SASHP Scholarly Report Workshop. This event will allow students to review sample reports and receive some feedback on their progress. Honestly, this might ease the capstone burden, so stop by on Mon, Feb 28 at 2 pm EST. Join here.

Honors Capstone Q&A
Wait! Don’t run away. For those in their sophomore or junior year, the honors capstone is something that cannot be put off. This session will cover everything soon-to-be capstone aficionados need to know - from courses required, to possible capstone options, to typical timelines. This Q&A session will feature a student-led panel and chats with honors advising deans. The Q&A takes place Fri, Mar 4 at 11 am EST via Zoom. Join here.
