

To Be, or Not To Be (Prepared)

RUTGERS SASHP NEWSLETTER

Monday, September 17, 2018

Dear SAS Honors Program Students,

Sometimes, you're going to have to do things you just aren't prepared for. Maybe this means taking a bus to a campus you're not used to. Maybe this means being asked a difficult question in class. Maybe this means taking on a new task at work. You may be stumped for a little while, but you'll eventually figure it out. You'll learn a new way of doing things and be able to conquer that challenge again. While we're in SASHP, we constantly put ourselves into new situations and find creative ways to solve problems, even if it just means organizing a study group for a difficult class. SASHP offers opportunities to learn new skills, take on exciting roles, and find out more about yourself. SASHP prepares you for what comes next.

Become a politically responsible youth by attending the 2018 Constitution Day Lecture. Find out more about Vietnamese history at the movie night in McCormick lounge. Submit a paper to the Rutgers Journal of Bioethics. Read about what an SASHP alum accomplished in this month's Alumni Spotlight.

We can all agree that sometimes, newness is scary. But it can also be a chance to learn something excellent.

With warmest regards,

Campus Events

The 2018 Constitution Day Lecture

The Center for Youth Political Participation and the Darien Fund for the US Constitution, Citizenship, and Civic Engagement present the 2018 Constitution Day Lecture, "To Form a More Perfect Union: Combating the Politics of Fear and Anger." This year's host is A'Leia Bundles, former president and chairman of National Archives Foundation. Bundles was a TV news executive and producer at NBC News and ABC News and currently serves as president of the Madam Walker/A'Leia Walker Family Archives. Sept 20, 7 to 8 PM at Traves Hall inside the Douglass Student Center. RSVP at go.rutgers.edu/i8qii9rn.

Movie Night in McCormick Lounge: Journey from the Fall

Get to know other SASHP students during our movie night in McCormick Hall. There will be a showing of Journey from the Fall, an award-winning independent film about a family's struggle under North Vietnam's communist regime in 1975. Sept 20, 7 to 9 PM in the lounge of McCormick Hall on Busch campus. ***Fulfills Honors Colloquium outside event.
